

Skilled, safe and effective workforce.

In the construction industry, whether directly or as a labour hire company, you operate in complex, and often hazardous, work environments. You also operate on a project basis, with a changing workforce, within a rigorous safety framework. As a result, there is a requirement for effective compliance processes to ensure safe and efficient work practices.

Processes range from the basic daily toolbox meetings through to complex engineering variation approval processes. An easy-to-use, flexible and transparent solution is needed to help manage these processes.

Adding to these challenges you also face rapid changes in building technology and methods, driving the need for just enough, just-in-time, yet still effective, skills development.

Tutis has the solution to help ensure your staff and contractors have the skills to safely and efficiently perform their roles. It also provides the transparency to demonstrate to internal and external stakeholders the extent of training provided and its compliance with regulations, industry standards, corporate policies and community standards.

Tutis cloud based solutions are delivered as a managed service ensuring you have a skilled, safe and effective workforce.
